Mariah the Scientist

I slept through all my days
Every one a sleepless night
I tried so many ways
Tried a thousand times
Till the voice in my head says
You're the only one of your kind
The only one feeling betrayed
'Cause in everybody's eyes

You're doing it wrong
Nowhere to confide
Been everywhere but home
Here to Rome, but still you were denied
Wanting to love
Wanted to live life
Instead you were all alone
All alone
It was you, yourself, and your pride

I crept through all the fame
Every fan and flashing light
There were ones who kept you sane
And there was some who made you cry
Till the voice in your head says
Is there anymore to this life?
Is there anyone who remains?
When everyone has said goodbye

There's got to be more (More)
Something to call mine (Mine)
I've been everywhere but home
From here to Rome, and still I was denied
For wanting to love (Love)
Wanting to live life (Life)
Instead I was all alone
And all along
It was me, myself, and I

Ooh
Me, myself, and I
Oh-ooh-ooh

And I've had plenty friends
That all seem to come and go
And I've known many loves
But none that I call home
And I've got plenty sense
Despite all of my mistakes
And of all the ones that I've made
I know there's a place

There's got to be more (More)
Something to call mine (Mine)
I've been everywhere but home
From here to Rome, and still I was denied
For wanting to love (Love)
Wanting to live life (Life)

Instead I was all alone
And all along
It was me, myself, and I

Ooh
Me, myself, and I
Oh-ooh
Me, myself, and I
Oh-ooh
Me, myself, and I
Oh-ooh
