

So Long

Marika Hackman

Was it cold outside?
'Cause your complexion is starting to fade
Or are you terrified?
'Cause you know what I'm gonna say

Like the world at your feet, you're a liar

Do you prefer her bed?
Would you like to return to it soon?
Does she stroke your head?
Does she wear a fancy perfume?

You can tell me I'm wrong all you like
Yeah I was wrong to carry on so long

I can tell you're lying by your watery eyes
I don't need to listen to your alibi
I know who you're feeling and I don't feel nice
I'll keep you in my bed tonight

So now it's all my fault
And I pushed you into her arms
'Cause I was so damn cold
That you couldn't run from her charms

You can tell me I'm wrong all you like
Yeah I was wrong to carry on so long

I can tell you're lying by your watery eyes
I don't need to listen to your alibi
I know who you're feeling and I don't feel nice
I'll keep you in my bed tonight

(I'll keep you in my bed tonight)
(I'll keep you in my bed tonight)
(I'll keep you in my bed tonight)
(I'll keep you in my bed tonight)
(I'll keep you in my bed tonight)

I can tell you're lying by your watery eyes
I'll keep you in my bed tonight
I don't need to listen to your alibi
I'll keep you in my bed tonight
I know who you're feeling and I don't feel nice
I'll keep you in my bed tonight
I'll keep you in my bed tonight