Runaway

Marillion

Did you cry when they dragged you home Put a lock on the door and the telephone Was a runaway girl all they could see

Have the nights and the days that you've come through Made the right seem wrong and the false seem true Was a runaway girl all they could see A teenage extra from the satellite TV

Runaway girl
Too bad, too bad
Runaway girl
Too wild, too wild

Were they deaf to the prayer behind your lies Maybe they didn't dare to ask you why Was a runaway girl all they chose to see All they were prepared to admit to

Runaway girl
Too bad, too bad
Runaway girl
A real wild child

So you cower in the towns forgotten places
And you make your bed with unfamiliar faces
And at last you've got your freedom but that's all you've got You're tryin' to make your mind up if you're better off

You pretend to wait for washing in some laundromat
But you're damned if you'll give them the satisfaction of you g oing back

You'd freeze to death before you'd share a roof with them And you'd starve before you'd let him get his hands on you again

Did you cry when they dragged you home Did you cry when they dragged you home Poor little runaway, poor little runaway
