

Don't You Worry

Mark Ambor

I wish I could do something
Something to pull you off that ledge
'Cause this world is confusing
You said it's just messing with your head
Underwater, and you're having trouble breathing
Is there a way to straighten out the way you feel uneven?

Don't you worry, babe, we'll figure it out
We can hold each other when the world gets too loud
No matter where I go, you'll always be my home
Don't you worry, babe, we'll figure it out

I know that you don't know why
And I know I'm not going anywhere
'Cause you say it's just not right
To bring me along so unprepared
But you're the one I want, and, yeah, I wanna listen
Is there a way of breaking down the house with all your demons?

Don't you worry, babe, we'll figure it out
We can hold each other when the world gets too loud
No matter where I go, you'll always be my home
Don't you worry, babe, we'll figure it out

Don't you worry, babe, we'll figure it out
We can hold each other when the world gets too loud
No matter where I go, you'll always be my home
Don't you worry, babe, we'll figure it out
