

Axis

Mark Morton

I came down with a fever
The catacombs, they were filled
Lucifer within my larynx
Clothing a sarcophagus

Baby set my head on fire
Every man is born to die
The captain called me out on a carpet boys
You know I got a tear in my eye

I have been lost and wandering
A wanderer I remain
Met Judas in west Texas
Tried to take my name
Now I am lost and wandering
And wandering I am blind
Will the moon come off its axis
Before I lose my mind?

I came down with a sickness
Pouring down just like rain
Red, red sun in the evening
Red, red heart full of pain

Baby set my head on fire
Every man is born to die
The captain called me out on a carpet boys
You know I got a tear in my eye

I have been lost and wandering
A wanderer I remain
Met Judas in west Texas
Tried to take my name
Blood is worth much more than money
As a poison crown
Tell the snake that bit me honey
It's gonna take me down
Now I am lost and wandering
And wandering I am blind
Will the moon come off its axis
Before I lose my mind?

Will the moon come off its axis?
Will the moon come off its axis?
Will the moon come off its axis?
Will the moon come off its axis?
