

Brother

Mark Morton

Brother brother, where you been?
What was my unforgiven sin?
Keep spitting nails, tell me how I've failed
If we're ever going to speak again
Brother brother, where you been?

Brother brother, why you hide?
Can you look your mother in the eye?
Do you feel ashamed when you speak her name
Or are you high on your petty pride?
Brother brother, why you hide?

You be Cain and I'll be Abel
You're the only one keeping score
It turns out if you turn the table
You're worse off than you were before

Brother brother, where'd you go?
Are you too far down that dead end road?
Are you stuck down in what you could've been
Or is it easier to be alone?
Brother brother, where'd you go?

You be Cain and I'll be Abel
You're the only one keeping score
It turns out if you turn the table
You're worse off than you were before

Brother brother, where you been?
Where we go it all depends
We played the part, you wrote the start
But I know where it ends
Brother brother, where you been?

Brother brother, where you been?
