

Home

Mark Morton

Sending signals in a pitch black sky to nowhere
Like I've been out here lost at sea
And I can't stand to see the face in the mirror
Because I know it sure ain't me

It was everything I never wanted
Everything I'm going to be

So baby help me back home
Because I ain't ever going to find it on my own
I'm sick and tired of just living out somebody else's dream
Getting further away from where I'm supposed to be, yeah
Home, so baby come find me

I've been out here digging holes too deep to crawl out
Another town, another face I won't see again
I've seen the sun coming up while I'm coming down
And I won't pretend I know where it ends, yeah where it ends

It was everything I never wanted
Everything I'm going to be

So baby help me back home
Because I ain't ever going to find it on my own
I'm sick and tired of just living out somebody else's dream
Getting further away from where I'm supposed to be, yeah
Home

Yeah won't you help me back home
Because I ain't ever going to find it on my own
I'm sick and tired of living out somebody else's dream
Getting further away from where I'm supposed to be, yeah
Home, so baby come find me

Baby come find me
Baby come find me