

Spinning

Mark Ronson

Steady my breath in the wake of love
Heavy on down, yeah, the weight's too much
I don't wanna drown, but the waves keep on rolling
Pour out what's left in a heart-shaped case
You can have it all, yeah, it's yours to break
If I don't get it right with you this time, I'm hopeless

But sometimes, you think it's been long enough
But old wounds carry, carry into brand new love
And words won't make up for the hurt I've caused
But I'll make right whatever I've done

When I'm spinning
You bring me back to earth and you fix it
When nothing's making sense and I'm dizzy
Yeah, you're the only one that I want
When I'm spinning
You bring me back to earth and you fix it
When nothing's making sense and I'm dizzy
Yeah, you're the only one that I want

On and on and on, feeling on and on
On and on, on and on, on and on
On and on and on, feeling on and on
On and on, on and on, on and on
On and on and on, feeling on and on
On and on, on and on, on and on
On and on and on, feeling on and on
On and on, on and on, on and on
On and on and on, feeling on and on
On and on, on and on, on and on
