

Breakin'

Marlon Craft

Thoughts from the window seat, the faces in the crowd louder than the info speak
A movement is brewin', they sleepin' until it goes peep
I tell 'em go peek in the show and watch the jaws all drop like a Diplo beat
And I'm feelin' worn out like a nympho's cheeks, out here expanding my capacity
Makin' room for ones who been down and the ones who laughed at me
People who were asses clap for me and call the radio
I got the bangin' they been lookin' for apparently, the truth don't always leave discussion everywhere it be
So I make assessments but assert the judgements barely, watch a lot of people mistaking dogma for clarity, yeah
I blend the hope with the darkness like there's a pair of me, kids that come around don't always go around merrily
Rarely, barely to be real but if you time your leap off of that carousel you can land on your wheels, that's real

So late, I can't sleep (I can't sleep)
Lonely, so ask me (so ask me)
You better wake up before I'm gone, you better jump in, the wave is strong
Break the way

The essence of it all is the questions of it all
I'm addicted to others, but I step into withdrawal all the time
Going backwards like I'm stepping to a crawl
Take my lessons and confess 'em to you all, that compression and a little bit of reverb
Was never with an office space, cause that ain't the way we work, who can relate?
But on a Monday, shit, who I can I take, for some drinks and some stupid mistakes? Is it only I?
If I ain't got no one to bone, am I still bona fide? Fortified, solar mind, turning mush from four to five in the AM, closin' eyes, tryna be a noble guy
Irony, see my realest self when I close the blinds, shit
Ain't nothing wrong with aloneness I'm just tryna grow on my own I'm fine
I grab the pen and take a breath, cause all I got is me when there ain't nobody left

So late, I can't sleep (I can't sleep)
Lonely, so ask me (so ask me)
You better wake up before I'm gone, you better jump in, the wave is strong
Break the way

So late, I can't sleep (I can't sleep)
Lonely, so ask me (so ask me)
You better wake up before I'm gone, you better jump in, the wave is strong
Break the way