

Anytime

Martin Jondo

Anytime you call I will be right there I would jump into a river even if I can't swim Anytime you call I will be by your side I would spread my wings even if I can't fly Anytime you call I will do anything to be a rising sun and give you everything Anytime you call I will be your light and say I love you so much from inside

Open your eyes in the darkness You are strong have nothing to fear Cuz every moment we are sharin' Is a moment of life, that won't disappear

So listen what I say:

If there is thunder and lightning You gotta stand still in the middle of the storm You gotta do it, yeah. Take a chance Live your life now Just make it better everyday And the games people play Stick some stones on your way Just keep them away I say Anytime you call I will be right there I would jump into a river even if I can't swim Anytime you call I will be by your side I would spread my wings even if I can't fly Anytime you call I will do anything to be a rising sun and give you everything Anytime you call I will be your light and say I love you so much from inside

No more cold distance No more cold feelings deep inside Stick to your rules Shall resist her I will be your guiding light

Anytime you call I will be right there I would jump into a river even if I can't swim Anytime you call I will be by your side I would spread my wings even if I can't fly Anytime you call I will do anything to be a rising sun and give you everything Anytime you call I will be your light and say I love you so much from inside
