

Lover, Lover

Marty Robbins

Who can I count on if I can't count on you
Who can I turn to if I can't turn to you
Who can I cling to if I can't cling to you
Who can I sing to if I can't sing to you

Lover, you've left me alone in a world with no gladness
I'm all alone in a world where there's nothing but sadness
Lover, I pray that the angel of mercy will find me
And take away all of the pain and the chains that bind me

Lover, lover come back to me
Thoughts that I shouldn't keep, thoughts that invade my sleep
You with another man, has numbed my brain
My heart is running wild, it's acting like a child

Jealousy runs so deep inside my veins
Lover, you've left me alone in a world with no gladness
I'm all alone in a world where there's nothing but sadness
Lover, I pray that the angel of mercy will find me

And take away all of the pain and the chains that bind me
Lover, lover come back to me
Come back to me
