

Not Now Doesn't Mean Never

Marvin Sapp

I know there are some things you want, some things you need
Some things you've been waiting for
Some prayers you prayed, sacrifices you made
And you're wondering how much more
Listen let me tell you
I've been there a time or two
But what I found out on this journey
God knows what's best for you

If it's not now, it doesn't mean never
It only means there's a time and place that's so much better
If you learn to be patient, your change will come
Just know that right now doesn't mean never

I know there's been some cloudy skies, some nights you cried
All because it looked so dim
You see the dreams you had, haven't come to pass
And you're trying to keep your trust in Him
Listen let me tell you
Weeping may endure for a night
But if you can just keep the faith
Joy comes in the morning light, and...

If it's not now, it doesn't mean never
It only means there's a time and place that's so much better
If you learn to be patient, your change will come
Just know that right now doesn't mean never

It could've been (the right time)
But it was (the wrong place)
Could've felt (so right)
But it was (so wrong)
Maybe not (today)
But it could (be tomorrow)
I need you to understand that...

If it's not now, it doesn't mean never
It only means there's a time and place that's so much better
If you learn to be patient, your change will come
Just know that right now doesn't mean never
