

So Far Away

Mary Lambert

I'm a million miles away from anywhere
I slide my hands across the sheets, pretend you're there
But missing you is a slow burn, every time the earth turns
I'm reminded that night is only half the time

Even when I'm hurting I know that this is worth it
Tell me it'll be alright
Gotta give me something to get me through the nothing
One more night

Kiss me like the world is gonna disappear
I'm a better person when I have you here
I got you and I can get through
Anything as long as I can see your face
Right now you're so far away, so far away
You're so far away, so far away

I don't need a map to tell me where you are
You and I, we come from the same star
Every day is a heartache and every night I lie awake
I'm reminded the bed is only half mine

Even when I'm hurting I know that this is worth it
Tell me it'll be alright
Gotta give me something to get me through the nothing
One more night

Kiss me like the world is gonna disappear
I'm a better person when I have you here
I got you and I can get through
Anything as long as I can see your face
Right now you're so far away, so far away
You're so far away, so far away

Nobody's got the time, nobody's got the time
Nobody's got the time for love
Nobody's got the time, nobody's got the time
Nobody's got the time for love

Kiss me like the world is gonna disappear
I'm a better person when I have you here
I got you and I can get through
Anything as long as I can see your face

Kiss me like the world is gonna disappear
I'm a better person when I have you here
I got you and I can get through
Anything as long as I can see your face
Right now you're so far away, so far away
You're so far away, so far away
