

Bittersweet

MATOMA

I got tired of waiting
Laying wide awake for you
Losing all my patience
It's true

All this time you couldn't open up
But I left my heart on the line
Thought what we had would've been strong enough
But you turned out the light

It's bittersweet that you're not to lay here next to me
Like you used to be
But that don't mean that I don't see you in my dreams

I'm alive
But a part of me always dies
When you're on my mind
Then I lose control everytime

You still got me hoping
That you'll fall into me again
Get lost in the moment
And pretend

All this time, don't know why you couldn't open up
But I left my heart on the line
Thought what we had would've been strong enough
But you turned out the light

It's bittersweet that you're not to lay here next to me
Like you used to be
But that don't mean that I don't see you in my dreams

I'm alive
But a part of me always dies
When you're on my mind
Then I lose control everytime

I'm alive
But a part of me always dies
When you're on my mind
Then I lose control everytime