Matt Cab

Girl, you left me without a kiss goodbye,
I know I did you wrong, 'cause, darling, I was blind
Now all I see are faded memories, this love is stuck on replay.

Like over and over again in my head,
I shouldn't have played you, should have loved you instead
Now I'm tossing and turning all alone in this bed
Dreaming of how we used to be.

Your lipstick stain on my pillowcase
Is like a kiss goodbye that I can't erase
Now I'm here alone in this empty room,
'cause girl, you left me with the scent of your perfume.
The scent of your perfume, the scent of your perfume.
The scent of your perfume.

Burnt out your photographs, but it was just a waste
No matter where I go, can't help but see your face.
Now all I do is dream of how we used to be
This love is stuck on replay.

Like over and over again in my head,
I shouldn't have played you, should have loved you instead
Now I'm tossing and turning all alone in this bed
Dreaming of how we used to be.

Your lipstick stain on my pillowcase
Is like a kiss goodbye that I can't erase
Now I'm here alone in this empty room,
'cause girl, you left me with the scent of your perfume.

And I'm the only one to blame,
Don't know how I could let you slip away from me.
Girl, this is driving me insane, still see your silhouette against the window pane.
And all of these moments are still left into my brain
With the hope that you'll come back to me someday, someday.

Your lipstick stain on my pillowcase
Is like a kiss goodbye that I can't erase
Now I'm here alone in this empty room,
'cause girl, you left me with the scent of your perfume.
Your lipstick stain on my pillowcase
Is like a kiss goodbye that I can't erase.
Now I'm here alone in this empty room,
'cause girl, you left me with the scent of your perfume.
The scent of your perfume, the scent of your perfume.
The scent of your perfume.
The scent of your perfume.
