

Don't Break the Mirror

Matt Hammitt

Sometimes the darkest lies are born inside
The boundaries of our good intentions
Sometimes the only way to make a change
Is when we face the hardest questions

Tell me the truth
Of what you really feel inside

Do you love me
Do you love me
Or do you even love yourself
Do you even yourself

Do you love me
Do you love me
'Cause if you don't know love itself
How can you love anyone else

Know-oh-oh, know-oh-oh
Cause if you don't know love itself
How can you love anyone else

Your heart will whisper what it needs to hear
To try and make itself feel better
Who wants to show the ugly side of who they are
And let someone else measure

Oh, tell me the truth of what you really feel inside

Do you love me
Do you love me
Or do you even love yourself
Do you even yourself

Do you love me
Do you love me
Cause if you don't know love itself
How can you love anyone else

Know-oh-oh, know-oh-oh
'Cause if you don't know love itself
How can you love anyone else

Don't break the mirror
Don't break the mirror
Don't break the mirror
Don't break the mirror

Do you love me
Do you love me
Or do you even love yourself

Do you love me
'Cause if you don't know love itself
How can you love anyone else

Know-oh-oh, know-oh-oh

'Cause if you don't know love itself
How can you love anyone else
