

Light In You

Matt Simons

Somehow I'm worth your while
I get to hold you first thing in the morning
Then when I see you smile
Brighter than the new day that is dawning

It really makes me wonder
How this is real life
Not a dream or spell I'm under
With the way, the way that you make me feel like

In a crowded room, I'm the only one
Then its just us two, and the setting sun
There's a light in you, and everything that you do
Once again it seems you found a way
To make me love you even more
Than I loved you yesterday

I figured I'll tell you why
I stay up some nights to hear you breathing
With everyday that goes by
You are the one and only I believe in

If you'll agree to have me
Each day of your life
I'll try to make you happy
Like the way, the way that you make me feel like

In a crowded room, I'm the only one
Then its just us two, and the setting sun
There's a light in you, and everything that you do
Once again it seems you found a way
To make me love you even more
Than I loved you yesterday

In a crowded room, I'm the only one
Then its just us two, and the setting sun
There's a light in you, and everything that you do
Once again it seems you found a way
To make me love you even more
Than I loved you yesterday

I love you even more
Than I loved you yesterday
