

Say goodbye

Matt Simons

Stay up lately while she's sleeping by my side
Still heartbroken by the way that lovers lie
I used to need her, now it's hard to recall why
I think it's time to say goodbye

How many days she did not call and did not write
All we've been through I never treated her unkind
Could not be bothered as she watched me lose my mind
She can take her precious time

But I still believe in love
Visions of a girl that I've been dreaming of
I can't remember when exactly time was on my side
I think it's time to say goodbye

It can be said that I'm naive and lack foresight
A firm believer in strong will and appetite
How many years now since they gave up that good fight
They had bark but could not bite

But I still believe in truth
Words that once they're heard do not require proof
I still remember when it was that words were on my side
I think it's time to say goodbye

How many parties and rooftop lonely nights
How many girls, how many fancy evening flights
Do I lay down before I get you off my sights
It's been hard to feel alright

But I still believe in love
Visions of a life that I've been dreaming of
I can't remember when exactly time was on my side
But I can finally say goodbye

Oooh
I can finally say goodbye
