

Closure

Matt Terry

Cut off my hair and everyone I didn't need
All of my friends they were worried for weeks
But I'd never take it back, still I'd never take it back
Not at all

'Cause with every heartbreak I have changed
Is that the point of falling in love
When it turned to heartache I gave in

Now I'm looking in the mirror
Tracing every line around my eyes
See the world a little clearer
I guess you were never really mine
There were no more tears to cry
And there's no need to try
'Cause the hard part's done somehow
I'm smiling in the mirror
I guess that's closure now

I don't miss you, like I missed you last year
Forgot about your birthday, like the date disappeared
You ain't gonna hear from me, like you used to hear from me
Anymore

'Cause with every heartbreak I have changed
Is that the point of falling in love
When it turned to heartache I gave in

Now I'm looking in the mirror
Tracing every line around my eyes
See the world a little clearer
I guess you were never really mine
There were no more tears to cry
And there's no need to try
'Cause the hard part's done somehow
I'm smiling in the mirror
I guess that's closure now

I really thought I'd fold and never get back up
Trying to find myself in the broken glass
Every center piece, has played it's part
I've survived my [?] I'm proud of all my scars

Now I'm looking in the mirror
Tracing every line around my eyes
See the world a little clearer
I guess you were never really mine
There were no more tears to cry
And there's no need to try
'Cause the hard part's done somehow
I'm smiling in the mirror
I guess that's closure now