

Again and Again

Matt Webb

I told myself I wouldn't come here again
Thought I knew myself but I just can't forget what you said
I tried to hide it, couldn't fight it, oh again and again
I'm left with nothing, just give me something to help me understand

Again and again
I tell myself again and again
Need to be sure I can't pretend
I tell myself again and again

Don't you see me
I need a memory
Just believe me
I need a memory

I told myself we weren't one in the same
Cause I told stories about us, now I don't know what to say
I replay you leaving, when I was bleeding, oh again and again
I miss what you told me, was that the old me, now I don't understand

Again and again
I tell myself again and again
Need to be sure I can't pretend
I tell myself again and again

Don't you see me
I need a memory
Just believe me
I need a memory

Again and again I must be sure I can't pretend
Oh again and again I must be sure I can't pretend
And I need room to breathe
I told myself you get what you need
But I needed you more than you know

Again and again
I tell myself again and again
Need to be sure I can't pretend
I tell myself again and again

Again and again
I tell myself again and again
Need to be sure I can't pretend
I tell myself again and again

I need a memory...
