

Infinite Land

Matthew Mole

Put your head into the sand
I think that we could pretend
That neither you or I are here
We're on an infinite land

And so I've been told
The purpose in
Life is much more than living too full
Asleep in our graves
Because He came
And rose again, we'll do the same

Put your head into the sand
I think that we could pretend
That neither you or I are here
We're on an infinite land

And deep in our hearts
The very thing
Keeping us on track is knowing we
Have a new life
In the books
So write your name down

Put your head into the sand
I think that we could pretend
That neither you or I are here
We're on an infinite land
