

Happy

Matthew Perryman Jones

There's a morning in the moonlight
Telling signs on the roadside
All the wrongs that I can't make right
And things I don't want you to know

And my thoughts are like a wildfire
I keep running into barbed wire
Heaven moved but I am so tired
And I fought just like a stone

But I've got all that I wanted
More than I need
I got a girl on my arm who loves me
Why can't I let myself be happy?

Is it a secret that I won't tell

That guards the gates of my own hell
I lay down where the cards fell
One day I know, yes I know

But I've got all that I wanted
More than I need
I got a girl on my arm who loves me
Why can't I let myself be happy?

But I've got all that I wanted
More than I need
I got a girl on my arm who loves me
Why can't I let myself be
Why can't I let myself be
Why can't I let myself be
Why can't I let myself be
Happy
