

Devastation

Matthew Ryan

Coffee is sweeter
Days are sharper
Since I lost her
Since I lost

From the steps of Saint Mark's cathedral
I watch the steeple
Stab the clouds
Who's lonesome now?

Never, never, never, never, never again
Never, never, never, never, never again
Never again

Remember when we met
We were so innocent
I was so cautious, you were so cool
The world was brand new

Never, never, never, never, never again
Never, never, never, never, never again
Devastation

Midnight now
In the city of sidewalks
I miss her so much
But not enough to call

I've wrapped myself in the sweet kiss
Of loneliness
She's my mistress
She's always been

Never, never, never, never, never again
Never, never, never, never, never again
Devastation junkie