

Know Better

Maverick Sabre

And when I try to let you down
I know too well you wanna win somehow
Won't you plead with someone else just like you wanted to?
When I'm gone, I'll wish you well
Are you regretting every word you said?
'Cause lately I, I've been better without you

I should have known better
I should have known better
I should have known better
I should have known better

I should have known better
I should have known better
I should have known better
I should have known better

I don't even wanna waste
Another cold night
Tired of rolling in the rain
The more I
Hold on the more I take
And before I
Before I
Slip deeper in the game
Never thought I would
Stop steady if I can
At just the thought of you
At just the thought of you

I should have known better
I should have known better
I should have known better
I should have known better

I should have known better
I should have known better
I should have known better
I should have known better
