Where We're Going

Maxïmo Park

“I don’t know where we’re going, but you know where we’re going and if you know where we’re going, well that’s fine with me.”

I looked in your eyes and they both told me nothing. I’m reading kinesic signs and now I’m sensing something: You know where we’re going — it’s such a simple thing!
We went to the movies and you explained the subtext. You never shirked your studies and now I’m asking, “What next? What’s appropriate in the circumstance?” “It’s in the subtext. There’s a subtlety in a passing glance.
When to make a move; when to bide your time — it’s in the subtext.”
