

Goodbye Moon, Goodbye Stars

McCafferty

Goodbye moon and goodbye stars
Hold our breath for holding on
Paintings that we used to draw
Up and down on higher walls
Ride my bike up to your house
Riding bikes with someone else
Trace my hand along your chest
Your heart's my heart, you know me best

Scraped my knee again
When I fell from the furthest depths of hell
And I'm closing my eyes so I can smell
The way that your room has always smelt
And I feel like awake but asleep
And I know that your drugs, they aren't cheap
And I know that your smile sheds its art
When you're feeling alone you go walk in the park
You go walk in the park

Goodbye moon and goodbye stars
Hold our breath for holding on
Paintings that we used to draw
Up and down on higher walls

[illegible]

When I was young I used to be odd
When I was young I used to be odd
When I was young I used to be odd
When I was young I used to be odd

Scraped my knee again
When I fell from the furthest depths of hell
And I'm closing my eyes so I can smell
The way that your room has always smelt
And I feel like awake but asleep
And I know that your drugs, they aren't cheap
And I know that your smile sheds its art
When you're feeling alone you go walk in the park
You go walk in the park

[illegible]

When I was young I used to be odd
When I was young I used to be odd
When I was young I used to be odd
When I was young I used to be odd
When I was young I used to be odd
When I was young I used to be odd
When I was young I used to be odd
When I was young I used to be
