She says to calm down
She says to look straight
'Cause that's exactly where we're headed
She says to look for the good, you gotta look for the good because I know there's good in here somewhere
She says I love the way that you talk, she says I love the way that you pronounce your words
She says I love the way that your skin feels, because it feels like my skin too
I wonder why I stare in the mirror, and I pronounce the words "Oh, God I love you too"
I wonder why I tell all my best friends that their friendships don't mean shit to me

She says I hate you so much, your friendship won't work this time
I think your friends all found out, and they will probably take mine
She says I need you so much, your friendship won't work this time
I think your friends all found out, and they will probably, oh they will probably take mine

She says I hate you so much, your friendship won't work this time
I think your friends all found out, and they will probably take mine
She says I need you so much, your friendship won't work this time
I think your friends all sold out, I think you left me behind

She says I hate you so much, your friendship won't work this time
I think your friends all found out, and they will probably take mine

"Yeah! Oh, please! Oh, please do it again, let's do it again, I want to do it, oh do it again, I wanna do it again, please do it again."

"Hey, um. I called you a few times, could you call me back then when you get a chance? Alright, thanks, bye."

"Hey, man, I just wanted you to come to the show, uh, it's been awhile since I've seen ya, so, um, give me a call back when you u can, thanks, bye."

"Hey, we called a couple times and didn't hear back, yeah, we're just wondering where you are, we're sitting outside. Kinda cold, so. (Pick up or we're gonna die, man.) Yeah, we're supposed to record, yeah. Alright, just fucking pick up your phone, please? We'll see ya."
