

About U

Medium Build

Wake up alone
Wait all day for you just to pick up the phone
But you show me that we never should have built us a home
I should have known that you were a wreck, and now our walls are crumbling brick by brick
And I wish I could forget

About you
About you

I never heard you were the kind of guy that kept his word but I thought you were
I can't decide if throwing your shit out of the window was right but right then it felt like I was going to die
And I don't want to die thinking

About you
About you

And baby
I know it's crazy
But now my eyes are open wide
And baby
Maybe I'm crazy
But now my eyes are open and I see me without you
Without you
Without you
Without you