

Head Away

Meg Mac

Lying in the dark, I know you'll let me down again
Lying to my face, I know it's happening again
Oh, I don't say a thing
Oh, I don't say a thing

Now I'm looking back, I should've listened to my friends
I'm standing in the kitchen thinking, "Where do I begin?"
Oh, I don't say a thing
Oh

And so I put my hands over my eyes
Been here too many times
And you can think it's fine
If that helps you sleep at night

But get your head away from my head
I spent too long being close to you
So get your bed away from my bed
'Cause even if I wanted to, I can't wake up next to you
'Cause even if I wanted to, I can't wake up next to you

Every time you talk, I know it's happening again
Every word you say you'll only bring me down again
Oh, I don't say a thing
Oh

And so I put my hands over my eyes
Don't know why I act surprised
And you can think it's fine
If that helps you sleep at night

But get your head away from my head
I spent too long being close to you
So get your bed away from my bed
'Cause even if I wanted to, I can't wake up next to you, oh
'Cause even if I wanted to, I can't wake up next to you, oh
'Cause even if I wanted to, I can't wake up next to you, oh

Hand on my chest
I'm doing the best I can
I'll get to the rest
Oh, hand on my chest again
Ah, ah, ah (Ah)
Ah, ah, ah (Ah)

Put my hands over my eyes
Don't know why I act surprised
And you can think it's fine
If that helps you sleep at night

But get your head away from my head
I spent too long being close to you
And get your bed away from my bed
'Cause even if I wanted to, I can't wake up next to you, oh
'Cause even if I wanted to, I can't wake up next to you, oh
Ah, ah, ah
