

'Til Death

Megan Hilty

You meet the perfect woman
And you build the perfect life
And even when that shatters
The only thing that matters
Is, you vowed she'll be your wife

Ernest!

'Till death

Have you ever felt a little flicker of regret inside you?
Isn't it amazing how that flicker of regret can grow?
So you pour yourself a drink until your brain goes blank, whee!
That way you don't have to think about who you have to thank: m e!

Isn't it a wonder how the choices that you make can haunt you?
How everything you lost was the cost of your free will?
And it only took you 10 long years to tell
That this life you chose is truly worse than hell
Now there's only time to kill
'Till death