

Christmas Morning

Megan Moroney

You don't know how my day went
'Cause you don't ask and I don't see you
You don't tell me where you've been
And if you did, would I believe you?

I used to kiss you at the door
The second you got home
We used to talk about forever
Now the weather's all we know

Where did we go wrong?
All the good is gone

Take down the tree
Unplug the lights
It's colder in this bed than it is outside
Too tired to fight and too sad to cry
'Tis the season, you've got reasons, I know I've got mine
We've been falling apart all year, and today, I can't ignore it
Baby, when did our love stop feeling like Christmas morning?

I know how to fake a smile
Hell, my family's in the kitchen
Nat King Cole is on the speakers
While their talkin' turns to whisperin'

I know they know too
What a bad day for the truth

Take down the tree
Unplug the lights
It's colder in this bed than it is outside
Too tired to fight and too sad to cry
'Tis the season, you've got reasons, I know I've got mine
We've been falling apart all year, and today, I can't ignore it
Baby, when did our love stop feeling like Christmas morning?

Tell me when did we
Lose the shimmer and the shine?
When did you stop feeling like mine?

Take down the tree
Unplug the lights
It's colder in this bed than it is outside
I'm too tired to fight and too sad to cry
'Tis the season, you've got reasons, I know I've got mine
We've been falling apart all year, and today, I can't ignore it
Tell me when did our love stop feeling like Christmas morning?
