Distrust

Memory Garden

Bring the priest, we need him here
This hamlet's struck by sorcery
The blacksmith found them down by the sea
Blackened boils on all three

Dead at least for seven days
Made us contort in dismay
Alive or dead, come as they may
Such vicious acts make gallows sway

Find the ones who ever, have defied the words of god
Who can we trust, who's deceiving us?
Forces of the dark, persistently they sow discord
Let none scape, they shall burn!

Are we under spells of evil?
Save our poor souls, bring us back to the light!

Don't lose your heads, keep calm and pray
The damage done we will repay

Who's the wolf in sheep clothing?
Blending in and changing skin
A plan to take us down one by one
From the shadows strike, and soon be gone

Find the ones who ever, have defied the words of god
Who can we trust, who's deceiving us?
Forces of the dark, persistently they sow discord
Let none scape, they shall burn!

We close our eyes as they turn to ashes
Bewrayed by the raging wind
We raise our hands to heaven, and hope for them
To reconsile and be let in