

My Undoing

Meredith Andrews

I humble myself
Here I bow down low
I open my hands
Give You all control
I'm coming back
To the center of Your heart

The dreams that I've kept
I lay down again
Until all that's left
Is You and Your presence
I'm coming back
To the center of Your heart

This is my undoing
This is where I leave all else behind
This is me pursuing
The greatest love my heart will ever find
I am returning to
The place where all that matters is You

Unravel it all
My life is Yours
Whatever You break
You will restore
You're always after
The center of my heart

This is my undoing
This is where I leave all else behind
This is me pursuing
The greatest love my heart will ever find
I am returning to
The place where all that matters is You

You're refining, refining
The deepest parts of me
You're reminding, reminding
My heart that You are King
You're refining, refining
The deepest parts of me
You're reminding, reminding
My heart that You are King

You're reclaiming, reclaiming
What the enemy has stolen
You're rebuilding, rebuilding
The ruins for Your glory
You're reclaiming, reclaiming
What the enemy has stolen
You're rebuilding, rebuilding
These ruins for Your glory

This is my undoing
This is where I leave all else behind
This is me pursuing
The greatest love my heart could ever find

This is my undoing
This is where I leave all else behind
This is me pursuing
The greatest love my heart will ever find
I am returning to
The place where all that matters is You
Yes, I am returning to
The place where all that matters is You