Battalions

Metal Church

Deep slumber awakened by sirens I realize life's been thrown to the lions What I saw last night, our city so fair And to my horror, the bloody town square

The time is now, we must avenge We form to fight, we kill tonight We must rest to regain our strength We form to fight, we kill tonight

Battalion advances surrounding their backs In the night we'll attack with no questions or mercy We'll take all they have and we'll drive them before us Hear lamentations of women who cry for the loved ones we crush to avenge

Gather all survivors, the forces retreat They've leveled our city, there's rubble in the streets Surprise attack with no explanation What will we do with this demolished nation?

Death to come for what they've done Stab their backs, their necks will crack Stronger than ever, our guns held high Stab their backs, their necks will crack

Battalion advances surrounding their backs In the night we'll attack with no questions of mercy We'll take all they have and we'll drive them before us Hear lamentations of women who cry for the loved ones we crush to avenge

The people have organized an army of vengeance Struck them down, the bodies just like remnants Dogs of war, like lepers that are shunned We stand proud, the battle has been won

The time is now, we must avenge We form to fight, We kill tonight We must rest to regain our strength We form to fight, we kill tonight

Battalion advances surrounding their backs In the night we'll attack with no questions of mercy We'll take all they have and we'll drive them before us Hear lamentations of women who cry for the loved ones we crush to avenge
