

Echoplex

Miami Horror

So many different faces and among them I saw this man
His eyes were cold and dark and he stared straight at me
I felt this sting of pain, running down my spine
I walked past several seats and stop just next to the strange man

Hear the echo closer than it's ever been
Watch them slowly turn and fade away
After all the changes that we never see
A silver sun will come to throw your dreams away

I tried to escape and continued walking
I could feel his eyes burning a hole in my back
And I knew this was a mistake
But I couldn't stop, I couldn't stop myself from walking away

Hear the echo closer than it's ever been
Watch them slowly turn and fade away
After all the changes that we never see
A silver sun will come to throw your dreams away

Hear the echo closer than it's ever been
Watch them slowly turn and fade away
After all the changes that we never see
A silver sun will come to throw your dreams away