

Hope

Michael Card

Hope has been woven throughout all creation
An anchor that holds through the waves
Hope is the helmet of each noble soldier
For only the warrior who hopes can be brave

Hope you in the Lord
And renew your strength
Soar you up on eagle's wings
Tirelessly run the long race
That's set before you
Your life's a song the Father sings
Hope that you can see is really no hope at all
And like children who see faces in the clouds
We hopefully listen to the silence of life
And find that it is shouting out loud

Hope you in the Lord
And renew your strength
Soar you up on eagle's wings
Tirelessly run the long race
That's set before you
Your life's a song the Father sings

And though your life may seem
To sound a dark and minor key
It will someday shift itself to major
And the lyric of your life will rhyme
With nothing less than joy
And you'll find that hope is from
The One that you believe

Hope is an echo in the air all around you
It is the sound of heaven's symphony
And the hope that is Jesus will never disappoint us
It tenderly tells us, to hope is to believe

Hope you in the Lord
And renew your strength
Soar you up on eagle's wings
Tirelessly run the long race
That's set before you
Your life's a song the Father sings
Hope has been woven throughout all creation
