

I Still Love You

Michael Johnson

The arms that long to hold you are empty tonight
I've tried to live without you but it's useless to fight
And how can I give my heart to someone new
I still love you, I still love you

How can I forget you after so many tears
I tell myself it's over but my heart never hears
It's harder to say what I know is true
I still love you

Every time you're near me, it's so easy to pretend
We could be together once again
I know I'm only dreaming
But I just won't let it end
Wish it could be that you still loved me

The arms that long to hold you are empty tonight
I've tried to live without you but it's useless to fight
And how can I give my heart to someone new
I still love you, I still love you
I still love you
