You Want More

Michael Learns to Rock

You want more You want more You want more The taste of love You don't give up The dream that grows in your mind A touch of joy A glimpse of light You can sleep at night You want more You want more You want more You want more You want a soul Someone to adore You want more You want more The sound of strings Unfold your wings and lets you fly side your head The smell of grind Unlocks your chain Makes you dreaming once again You want more You want more You want more You want more You want a soul Someone to adore You want more You want a soul You want a soul Someone to adore You want more You want a soul Someone to adore