

Last Train To Tokyo

Michael Monroe

Heads spinning
Days dawning
Neon signs in the early morning
Hearts racing
Skyscraping
I come alive when the dawn is breaking

Came through the rocks and she pull your shakes
My heart is heavy and my head still aches
I'm off the rails and i got no brakes
Next stop: South Destruction

Yeah you know
I'm on the last train back to Tokyo
And I'm all alone
On the last train back to Tokyo
And I can't find my way home

Got your names on
Faded record sleeves
Old hearts bring back all those memories
The million faces
Fill empty spaces
The house is packed and the walls start shaking

I'm going blind in the flash bulb lights

My feet are heavy and my jaw feels tight
I'm off the rails in the city at night
No stop, no direction

Yeah you know
I'm on the last train back to Tokyo
And I'm all alone
On the last train back to Tokyo
And I can't find my way home

Yeah you know
I'm on the last train back to Tokyo
And I'm all alone
On the last train back to Tokyo

Yeah you know
I'm on the last train back to Tokyo
And I can't find my way home
(Yeah you know)
And I can't find my way home
(Yeah you know)
And I can't find my way home
(Yeah you know)
And I can't find my way home