

Too Rich to Be Good

Michael Monroe

Ain't no rules when you're at the top
Money talks but it's all you got
Sell your soul for wealth and fame
And you can never buy it back again
They pay a lot to keep you free
But you're guilty of impunity
A million fans look up to you
And you can get away with murder, too
Too bad you really couldn't play
And you got nothing to say

Refrain:

You're too rich to be good
You got more than you should
Too rich to be good
Got more than you should
You spend your cash
And talk a lot of trash
You're too smug, you act so brash
Can't trust nobody you've ever known
Got no friends but you're never alone
You're out of touch with reality
You've gone too far to see

That

Refrain

Ain't no rules when you're at the top
Money talks but it's all you got
Sell your soul for wealth and fame
And you can never buy it back again
