

One More Day

Michael Schulte

Yesterday I couldn't get me outta bed
It's just too much to take
Felt this weight. It's crushing me inside my chest
Someone take the pain away

My mind would race
When it's getting late
It keeps me awake
What I can't change

If I had one more day I would call you
Tell you that I need you here by my side
If we had one more day I'd be running and
Running just to buy a little more time
A little more time

Memories of us they start to slowly fade
Straight outta my view
I always try my best to take it day by day
Remembering you

If I had one more day I would call you
Tell you that I need you here by my side
If we had one more day I'd be running and
Running just to buy a little more time

I would trade a couple years of mine
Just to have a little bit more time
If we had one more day I'd be running and
Running just to buy a little more time
A little more time

I need a little more time

If I had one more day I would call you
Tell you that I need you here by my side
If we had one more day I'd be running and
Running just to buy a little more time

If I had one more day I would call you
Tell you that I need you here by my side
If we had one more day I'd be running and
Running just to buy a little more time

I would trade a couple years of mine
Just to have a little bit more time
If we had one more day I'd be running and
Running just to buy a little more time

A little more time
