I heard a story
Somebody told me of three different women
Long ago
One wasn't worthy
One was just thirsty
One had tried everything to stop all the hurting
Then they met a man who would hold the key to erase the past and change everything
Freed by his glory, three different stories
And somehow I still see me

When he speaks a word the chains are broken
And she who the son sets free, She's free indeed
But I want to be free, free me
Standing on your word, my arms wide open
And she who the son sets free, is free indeed (She's free indeed)
Now I am free, free me

How did I get here?
Where did I lose it?
I'm having trouble letting go.
It's hard to forget him.
He's done so much damage.
How can I forgive him now?
But I met someone with that kind of love
and he held me close.
And I'm completely freed by his glory
This is my story now.

When he speaks a word the chains are broken
And she who the son sets free, She's free indeed
But I want to be free, free me
Standing on your word, my arms wide open
And she who the son sets free, is free indeed (She's free indeed)
Now I am free, free me

Do it today, cause yesterday is gone.
But tomorrow the sun will shine again
Lord we need from you, your presence.
to heal us all. That is all

I don't know long you struggled this way.
You don't have to any longer you can be changed.
Desperate for someone to set you free.
And I know the Lord will.

When he speaks a word the chains are broken
And she who the son sets free, is free indeed (She's free indeed)
But I want to be free, free me
Standing on your word, my arms wide open
And she who the son sets free, is free indeed (She's free indeed)
Now I am free, free me

This one is free! (La la la la la)

This one is free! (La la la la la)
This one is free! (La la la la la)
