

Goodbye

Midnattsol

Goodbye my lover
Farewell my friend
Unwarped my inner soul and when the sensual lake brought your cheek to mine my sagacity turned naive and blind

And then you ripped out my heart
It sank in the big blue sea and we'll never know how it would be

How could I trust you again
Don't even know if you still pretend
All I know nothing is now like it seemed

See you again
Never again

Unload my ship and sail to new land
Leave the burden in the sand
The Norwegian dream just left in vain
Not a single teardrop was worth the pain

So why....
Why should I forgive
Why should I even care
You were never ever sincere
Your lies are not for my ears anymore

How could I see you again
How could I be your friend
When I know
nothing is now like it seemed

See you again
Never again

See you again
Never again

Goodbye