

Double Blank

Midnight Choir

The road ahead, lies dark and black
But there's no way I'm turning back
The message is clear, the feeling's gone
The fuses, switched off

We been waiting for our ship for so long it makes no sense
Every reason to stay on seems to be gone
We've been craving side by side
For something new, for something good
The devil waiting to light a spark in our lives
A little blue will become us

You're sucking the life right out of me
But I say goodbye without bitterness
This madness and voids must come to an end
Before it consumes us

We been waiting for our ship for so long it makes no sense
Every reason to stay on seems to be gone
We've been craving side by side
For something new, for something good
The devil waiting to light a spark in our lives
A little blue will become us

There's no set up, there's no score
A double blank with no call
All we gained since we started up these grades ??
And whatever there was between us
We have reached the final end
Like a speedboat bursting through the darkest night
A little blue will become us
A little blue will become us