

The Great Beyond

Midnight Juggernauts

Intangible

We're hungry so we hunt just like we're animals

Selecting a collective like we're cannibals

Unaccountable

Your satellite

Spun farther and hit sharper than a hunting knife

Directed at a heart which never harmonised

Or never recognised

Here and now

The fear of shifting gear is getting clearer now

Never slowing down the flow or even knowing how

To think it out aloud

In other words

To give on is to drift on into other worlds

No regrets so just forget the subtle threat you heard

Or sit and let it burn

Into the great beyond before hysteria starts

Into the great beyond before the world around us all falls apart

As we pass through the valley of the shadow of death

We never question where the voyage will end

Into the great beyond before hysteria starts

Into the great beyond before the world around us all falls apart

As we pass through the valley of the shadow of death

We never question where the voyage will end

Another thing

You learn from every word in every song it sings

The light in every right and every wrong it brings

That means everything

Eventually

We'll hit upon the wreckage of the century

The sight of flashing and what it meant to be

All eventually

Into the great beyond before hysteria starts

Into the great beyond before the world around us all falls apart

As we pass through the valley of the shadow of death

We never question where the voyage will end

Into the great beyond before hysteria starts

Into the great beyond before the world around us all falls apart

As we pass through the valley of the shadow of death

We never question where the voyage will end
