

Last night I stared, at an empty glass
Thinking of all, the years that have passed
As far as my, memory recalls, you have been gone
And I'm still here, trying to change the past

If I could just go back to '99
Before you left home for the last time
Then maybe I could look into your eyes
And stop you driving out of my life
If I could just go back to '99
Before you left home for the last time
Then maybe I could look into your eyes
And stop you driving out of my life
'Cause you never said goodbye
No you never said goodbye
Why'd you never say goodbye
Why'd you never say goodbye

And when you ran, down your tank of gas
How many towns was it that you passed
I'd like to know for once just, where you ended up
Cause I'm still here, trying to change the past

If I could just go back to '99
Before you left home for the last time
Then maybe I could look into your eyes
And stop you driving out of my life
If I could just go back to '99
Before you left home for the last time
Then maybe I could look into your eyes
And stop you driving out of my life
Cause you never said goodbye
No you never said goodbye
Why'd you never say goodbye
Why'd you never say goodbye
Why'd, you never say goodbye