Never Look Back

Mighty Oaks

The tale is old that tells the fate of all our lives in the han ds of three.
They take the thread out oh and they weave it.
The first, she sings a song about the world, to tell of all tha t she sees.
She opens her eyes up to spin on the wheel.

But we could change it.
Baby, let's change it.

Let's escape it all (we'll escape it all).
And never look back again (won't look back again).
Baby, let's go get lost (oh let's go get lost).
And never look back again (won't look back again).

And one by one they choose the good in us, and how much evil st ays.
The sisters fate, oh they give and they take.
The second sings a song of all that was, she tells of bygone da ys.
She takes the thread and she measures its weight.

But we could change it.
Baby, let's change it.

Let's escape it all (we'll escape it all).
And never look back again (won't look back again).
Baby, let's go get lost (oh let's go get lost).
And never look back again (won't look back again).

The sisters take the reins on life and say how we're to live ou t our days.
They give you a journey and don't let it change.
The third, she sings a song of what's to come, she sings of all that will be.
Then she cuts your thread, that's the release.

But we could change it.
Baby, let's change it.

Let's escape it all (we'll escape it all).
And never look back again (won't look back again).
Baby, let's go get lost (oh let's go get lost).
And never look back again (won't look back again).
