

Take Your Problems With You

Mika

Oh, your face
Like a girl in a long-lost place, on a road to nowhere
For nowhere is that place
Where it's sunny every day and your problems just fade to nothing
There's always something

You will always take your problems with you
It's a problem but we all have got to
Nothing I can say to make them go away

Leave your heart and your pain at the door
Tell me what you're crying for
Tell me what you suffer for
You may be strong, but the strongest of hearts
Needs a little break sometimes
Leave your problems at the door
Tell me what you're waiting for
Tell me why you're waiting

When your life is like a rock that you drag but your tired legs lead to nothing
Can't feel nothing
And you try, try to love, try to smile, try to cry but you can't do n othing
There's always something

You will always take your problems with you
It's a problem but we all have got to
Nothing I can say to make them go away

Leave your heart and your pain at the door
Tell me what you're crying for
Tell me what you suffer for
You may be strong, but the strongest of hearts
Needs a little break sometimes
Leave your problems at the door
Tell me what you're waiting for
Tell me why you're waiting

Leave your heart and your pain at the door
Tell me what you're crying for
Tell me what you suffer for
You may be strong, but the strongest of hearts
Needs a little break sometimes
Leave your problems at the door
Tell me what you're waiting for
Tell me why you're waiting
