

Don't Hurt

Mike Williams

Did you cut your hair 'cause you look a little different than I left ya?
Why you always tryna hide all that pain behind your eyes? I don
't remember
I used to think that I would always let you get to me
That I would hear your voice and hit my knees
And now I feel it all again, again

But it don't hurt like it used to
No, it don't burn like a coal still hot
And when I see you at the bar with a honey on your arm
I feel nothing at all
'Cause it don't hurt
No, it don't hurt like it used to
And when I see you at the bar with a honey on your arm
I feel nothing at all
'Cause it don't hurt
No, it don't hurt like it used to
And when I see you at the bar with a honey on your arm
I feel nothing at all

Did you cut your hair 'cause you look a little different than I
left ya?
Why you always tryna hide all that pain behind your eyes? I don
't remember
I used to think that I would always let you get to me
That I would hear your voice and hit my knees
And now I feel it all again, again

But it don't hurt like it used to
No, it don't burn like a coal still hot
And when I see you at the bar with a honey on your arm

'Cause it don't hurt
No, it don't hurt like it used to
And when I see you at the bar with a honey on your arm
