

It's almost there, it's almost there
 It's like, check one, two, two, one, two, two
 Can we get another one going?
 I'll put some money on it, you buying a bag?
 He lying, check one, two, yeah
 He ain't got no money, I'll put some money on it
 Yeah, what up, uh huh, uh huh
 Uh huh, uh huh, compliments the company, of course

 Bombay marks the, I, love with the

Butterscotch butter crinkle, my muse is bilingual
 Her gaze piercing, baby momma instinct
 Faking normalcy, hormones extorting me
 The horror of gorgeousness, Black Orpheus
 Smash root, determined for haze, grassroots
 The last game of spades, in cahoots with an irascible nave
 Who points at his own pot belly
 Slave man boot, don't fail me, slave man boot, don't fail me
 Clouded lemon tree, Solomon grew accustomed to the bowing and bended knees
 The scent was heavenly
 Wisdoms tarnished to the same color as piss pot
 Related by deviance, certain queries repeated
 The berries were sweetened, lingon, languish
 Who grip be by the pinger, power you
 Britta water filtered juice with freshened caboose, kaboom
 And a handful of mixed nuts
 Leave the show like "milo spoke so well"
 Threaten to poke a hole through my fontanel
 Idle and bewildered, burnt, booty like bald cruelly calls
 Another bygone anthem, psychic tantrum
 That machine left my memory rotoscoped
 Bro got ambition in bushels, bundles, barrels
 Hunting the herald, rest in peace Harold Hunter
 Blunted SOS, grunting "Yes, yes"
 A disservice when art nuevo act rich, my bong water brackish
 We was jiggling to Tony Braxton, me and my big love like Bill Paxton
 Bro got old and rich off niggas like Phil Jackson
 Pass on the ostentatious displays of wealth
 Ran her palms along the green felt
 Y'all was using binoculars wearing LL Bean belts
 My money circle through black economies
 From your perspective, Rowe was naval-gazing spook astrology
